

Summary

- Mutual information between trajectories quantifies the efficiency of (biological) signal processing
- Trajectory MI can only be computed using a model-based approach
- Using Monte Carlo simulations we can compute the trajectory MI for complex biochemical signaling networks

